The Alpine Shepherd.
When on my car your loss was knell
And lender sympathy aplared.
A little rull from memory swelled,
Which once had southed my hitter

And I was fain to hear to you Some portion of their mild relief. That it might be as healing dow, To steal some fever from your grief. After our child's untroubled breath (p) to the father took its way. And on our home the shade of death Like a long twilight hanning lay

And friends came round with us to weep His little spirit's swift ramove. This stary of the Alpine sheep Was teld to us by one we love:

"They in the valley's sheltering care. Soon crop the meadow's tender prime, And when the sed grows brown and bare. The snopherd strives to make them climb

To niry shelver of pasture green.
That hang along the mountain's side,
Where grass and dowers together tean
And down thro' mist the sunbrams slide But naught can tempt the limid things.
The steep and rugged paths to try.
The awort the Shepherd calls and sings.
And seared below the pastures lie.

Till in his arms the lambs he takes, Along the dizzy verge to go. Then, headless of the rifls and breaks, They follow on o'er rock and snow.

This parable, by Nature breathed, Blew on me as the southwind free Der frozen brooks, that float unshes From ley thralldom to the sea.

Holding our little lamb asiesp, And like the burden of the ess flounded that voice along the deop, Saying, "Arise and follow met."
